THE STATE PRESS ASSOCIATION.

The thirteenth annual session of the South Carolina State Press Association was held at White Stone Lithia Springs, Spartanburg County, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week, and it was one of the most interesting and enjoyable meetings in the history of the organization. Those of the members who failed to attend missed a royal treat.

The meetings were held in one of the spacious parlors of the hotel, and at the first session Wednesday morning Capt. Chas. Petty, the veteran editor of the Carolina Spartan, of Spartanburg, in behalf of our clever hosts, Mr. J. T. Harris, proprietor of White Stone Springs, and Mr. A. Stanley Sanford, the lessee and manager of the magnificent hotel, delivered a most cordial and interesting address of welcome, which was fittingly responded to by Col. E. H. Aull, President, in behalf of the Association.

A very interesting programme had been arranged for this meeting, and nearly all the members who had been appointed to prepare and read papers on the subjects assigned them came well prepared to perform their duty. The subjects of the papers brought out other topics of interest to the journalists, each of whom received new and practical ideas of our profession from the experience of our fellow-workers.

After the welcome meeting the officers submitted their reports, and the Association got down to business in earnest. Two and three sessions were held each day. The guests at the hotel were invited to attend our meetings, and they manifested a deep interest in our proceedings, especially in the interesting papers read before the Association and the discussions that followed.

The annual address at this meeting was delivered on Wednesday evening by Hon. John Temple Graves, editor of the Atlanta (Ga.) News, whose subject was "The Press of America." His address was a most practical and eloquent exposition of the principles of journalism, of the great work, the responsibilities and duties of the editor, and no doubt made a lasting impression on the mind of every one present.

At the conclusion of our session Thursday at noon a representative committee from the Chamber of Commerce at Union, S. C., came over to White Stone and took our entire party in a special train to their progressive city a few miles distant. At the depot we were met by a large crowd of the citizens with carriages, and enjoyed a most pleasant drive through the principal streets, viewing the beautiful homes and other points of interest. At the conclusion of the drive we were escorted into the handsomely equipped suite of rooms of the Clover Club, where we were served with delicious refreshments and listened to some sweet music. Souvenir invitations, gilt edged and unique, next carried us to the handsome store of the Union Drug Co., where ice cream, delicious soft drinks, etc., were served to all. Mr. Allen Nicholson, editor and proprietor of the Union Progress, presented each visitor with an automatic fan and a copy of his paper of the 13th inst., giving a graphic and illustrated description of Union and facts about its wonderful growth and development during the last twelve years. It was nearly 8 o'clock when we boarded the train for the return trip to White Stone, which was made with the pleasant memories of a most enjoyable afternoon in the pretty city, and with the courtly men and lovely women who had given us such a cordial welcome and who had treated us so cleverly.

One of the most enjoyable features of the meeting was the banquet on Thursday evening, given by Messrs. Harris and Stanford complimentary to the Press Association and a few invited guests. It was 10.30 o'clock when the doors of the spacious dining hall were thrown open, and for the next three hours every editor, especially, forgot the hardships of this life. An elaborate menu was served in fine style, and it was greatly enjoyed by the 100 or more ladies and gentlemen present. President Aull presided in his usual happy manner. The following were the toasts:

"The State of South Carolina," by Lieutenant-Governor Sloan; "Our Association," by President Elbert H. Aull; "Our Hosts," by August Kohn; "The Press," by Jno. M. Knight; "Woman," J. Ed. Normont. The speeches were generally in a happy vein and were well received.

On Friday morning the Association held its final meeting and adjourned at noon subject to the call of the President. All of the old officers were re-elected to serve the ensuing year, as follows: President, E. H.

Aull; Vice Presidents, E. H. DeCamp and N. Christensen, Jr.; Chaplain, Rev. W. P. Jacobs, D. D.; Secretary, C. C. Langston; Treasurer, August Kohn; Executive Committee, J. E. Normont, J. M. Knight and J. W. Ragsdale.

The Association had two pressing invitations for the next annual meeting, one from Union and one from our hosts, Messrs. Harris and Stanford. The invitation from the latter gentlemen was accepted, and, for the third time we will hold our annual meeting next year at White Stone.

The unbounded hospitality and kind attention of Messrs. Harris and Stanford and their assistants will long be remembered by our entire party, all of whom regretted that our stay could not be prolonged.

White Stone Springs hotel is one resort that must be seen to be appreciated. More than a half century ago there was local interest in the curative properties of the water, and every Summer numbers of people from the surrounding country went there and camped for weeks, but there was no thought of inviting others from a distance to partake of the benefits flowing from nature's fountain in great abundance. All this is now changed, and in the last two years wonders have been wrought, until White Stone has become celebrated in all parts of the United States. Mr. Harris, the wizard of health resorts in this part of the country, seems to have an intuition for the development of neglected springs. His work at White Stone is marvelous, and he is just fairly beginning to unfold and bring to perfection the plans he has in view to make it an attractive Summer and Winter resort.

Nestled among the hills between the Paolet and Enoree he has found an ideal spot for the fulfillment of his purposes. The mammoth hotel sits on a hill, and from its broad, long piazzas a grand view is presented to the guests. The building is three stories in height, contains more than two hundred rooms, and in the centre is the largest kind of a rotunda, whose circle on each floor will accommodate hundreds of spectators. Every room in the house is on the outside, and not a single guest can ask for a change of location on the ground of ventilation. The hotel is lighted with electricity throughout, is fitted up with electric bells, water works and the latest improved sanitary arrangements, and in Winter is supplied with steam heat. The dining room will seat 300 people, and on the third floor is a ball room of like dimensions, which has more than a hundred incandescent lights grouped most artistically in the ceiling. The hotel is surrounded with a remarkable variety of beautiful trees, and at night the grounds are brilliantly lighted by electric lights, presenting a lovely scene. Nature seems to have not only made it a health resort, but also a place of rest, recreation and pleasure.

The spring is in the ravine and is encased in a lovely marble basin, with a heavy, attractive, circular rock foundation about four feet high, the spring being in the centre of this elevation. Over all this rises a beautiful rustic frame structure with posts of cedar—altogether a very handsome spring house. A club house, billiard rooms, bowling alley and tennis grounds near the spring diversifies the enjoyment of the visitors and renders more attractive their sojourn.

An interesting place to visit is the bottling works, situated a short distance south of the spring. The water runs through a pipe direct to the building, where a large force of hands is engaged preparing it for shipment. The water is shipped in carboys and in crates of half gallon, quart and pint bottles, the latter being ginger ale or carbonated soda water of different flavors. Mr. Harris is a persistent and successful advertiser, and is shipping about a car load of his water every day, which speaks volumes for its merits, as the water has been on the market only two seasons.

The spring is eight miles from the city of Spartanburg, on the Asheville and Columbia division of the Southern Railway. The station was formerly known as Rich Hill, but is now called White Stone. The spring is about two miles from the station, and Mr. Harris has an electric car line from the hotel to the station.

A fine orchestra of accomplished musicians is employed at the hotel and renders sweet music at intervals during day and night. This, of course, is highly enjoyed by the guests.

Mr. Stanford, the new manager of the hotel, is a native of Virginia, but has long been connected with one of the leading hotels in Philadelphia, and his experience and genial disposition eminently fits him for the management of such a commodious and magnificent hostelry. He is ably assisted in his office by Messrs. John Fox, chief clerk, Robert Cason and James Hyson, assistants. All these courteous gentlemen understand their business, and look closely after the comfort of their guests. It is indeed a great pleasure to visit White Stone. If you contemplate visiting a resort for either health, recreation or pleasure, take our advice and go to White Stone Lithia Springs. If you visit there once you will surely go back again.

President Benjamin E. Richards of the Southern States mission of the Mormon Church has purchased substantial buildings in Chattanooga for the permanent establishment of headquarters for the Mormon Church in the South. All the Southern States will be in his jurisdiction and missionaries will be sent out from here. These headquarters are moved from Atlanta.
